

New York Stock Market

New York, September 7.—Events which it was supposed were awaited to dissolve the uncertainty and hesitation of the speculation in stocks succeeded each other without bringing any relief to the market. Yesterday was the Vermont elections which were said to be repressing activity in the market. To-day attention was carried forward to to-morrow's government report on grain crop conditions. Should that fail to arouse activity in the dealings in stocks the coming copper producers' report and the monthly statement of unified tonnage orders of the United States Steel Corporation will be brought forward as the subjects on which light is desired.

The stock market followed its tradition in depressing price on news of reduced Republican majorities in a Vermont State election. A yesterday's selling seems to have been based on expectation of the result, there was sufficient demand from uncovered shorts to tally price. This action of the market was accepted as another proof of its exceedingly narrow professional proportions and of the wholly perfunctory character of the operations now going on. There was another lapse in interest in consequence, and the later market lost nearly all semblance of activity. The market will offer unusual hazards from frost damage, owing to the lateness of the crop in maturing. For this reason every day of warm, favoring weather in the corn belt, gives special gratification as adding a fresh portion to the amount of the crop already made and secure from frost.

The adjustment to more normal price levels in the cotton market is a matter that would bring satisfaction to an extensive circle of financial and industrial interests, especially for the effect it would have in inciting export demand for that product, and thus helping to restore the discrepancy in the foreign trade position. The weakness of foreign exchange to-day was believed to have a connection with the increasing supply of commercial bills in that market. A rise in the private discount rates in the Berlin and Paris markets did not check the movement. London discounts were expected to have a change in the Bank of England's official rate is not looked for to-morrow. The movement of currency out of New York continues, but at a moderate rate. Chicago reports an easier tendency of the money market. Half a million dollars of Mexican gold was rife in New York during the day, and the shipments to Canada have been suspended.

It is believed in the financial district that the trunk line railroads will offer an argument for higher freight rates in the hearing upon to-day before the Interstate Commission's examiners than were made by the Western railroads. This had some sustaining effect on stocks. Bonds were a firm. Total sales, $56,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call. Total sales for the day 238,800 shares.
